HE500 SERIES

HC3 Edge

As new technologies emerge across all industries, the need for edge computing is on the rise.Remote sites at the edge of the network lack dedicated IT staff but require many of the same computing needs, like high availability and high performance, as the data center. Those sites need efficient, easy-to-use, reliable, and cost-effective infrastructure.

The HE500 appliance series was designed with both performance and low-price in mind, making them not just ideal for edge computing but also perfect for small businesses looking to run on a modern, efficient infrastructure that doesn't break the budget. Whether you are a small or medium business with only one or two sites, an enterprise with many distributed sites, or an MSP looking to meet the needs of many smaller businesses, the HE500 series will deliver a flexible solution at the edge.
